Buster Grip® Launched Successfully at PGA Merchandise Show, Consumer Golf Shows

(TRAVERSE CITY, MI – April 20, 2007) – Professional and Amateur golfers have shown great enthusiasm for Buster Grips following the national launch of the product at the PGA Merchandise show. Buster Grips are a reverse taper grip made of a high-tech elastomeric material. The combination of design and material create a grip that is unique to the industry and that is growing in popularity. Buster Grips were also showcased at Consumer Golf Shows in Kansas City, Novi and Chicago.

Visitors to the Buster Grips booth commented on how Buster Grips fit the natural shape of the hand and have a soft, tacky feel. The shape of the grip naturally gives control of the swing to the upper hand and helps address the ball more squarely. The result is a straighter, more powerful shot. Consumers were excited to finally find a grip that felt comfortable – especially those golfers who suffer from joint or arthritis problems. “The fact that the Buster Grip is made of a durable elastomeric compound allows the grips to stay tacky when wet, as well as absorb vibration when you hit the ball,” according to Jennifer Borkovich of Buster Golf Devices. “We have received outstanding feedback from our customers after they have tried Buster Grips telling us that they hit straighter, hit longer and have reduced pain and fatigue in their hands.”

About Buster Grips®

The patented Buster Grip® was originally developed by Buster Jacques in the 1970's to allow him to play golf without suffering from arthritis pain. Buster's son Jack made design improvements and incorporated high-tech materials. Early customers discovered that Busters' concept went beyond creating a comfortable grip to solve many common swing ailments. Providing the lower hand with a secure and more relaxed grip reduces the tendency to slice and enhances the ability to draw the ball. Manufactured in the USA and conforming to USGA regulations, The Buster Grip® is pure quality - something Buster and his son can be proud of.

Buster Grips is the original reverse taper golf grip. The winning combination of Buster Grips' patented design and high tech material is the latest innovation in the golf industry. USGA conforming, the natural grip allows you to address the ball more squarely straightening out your shot in the most comfortable and natural way.
